Looking up...

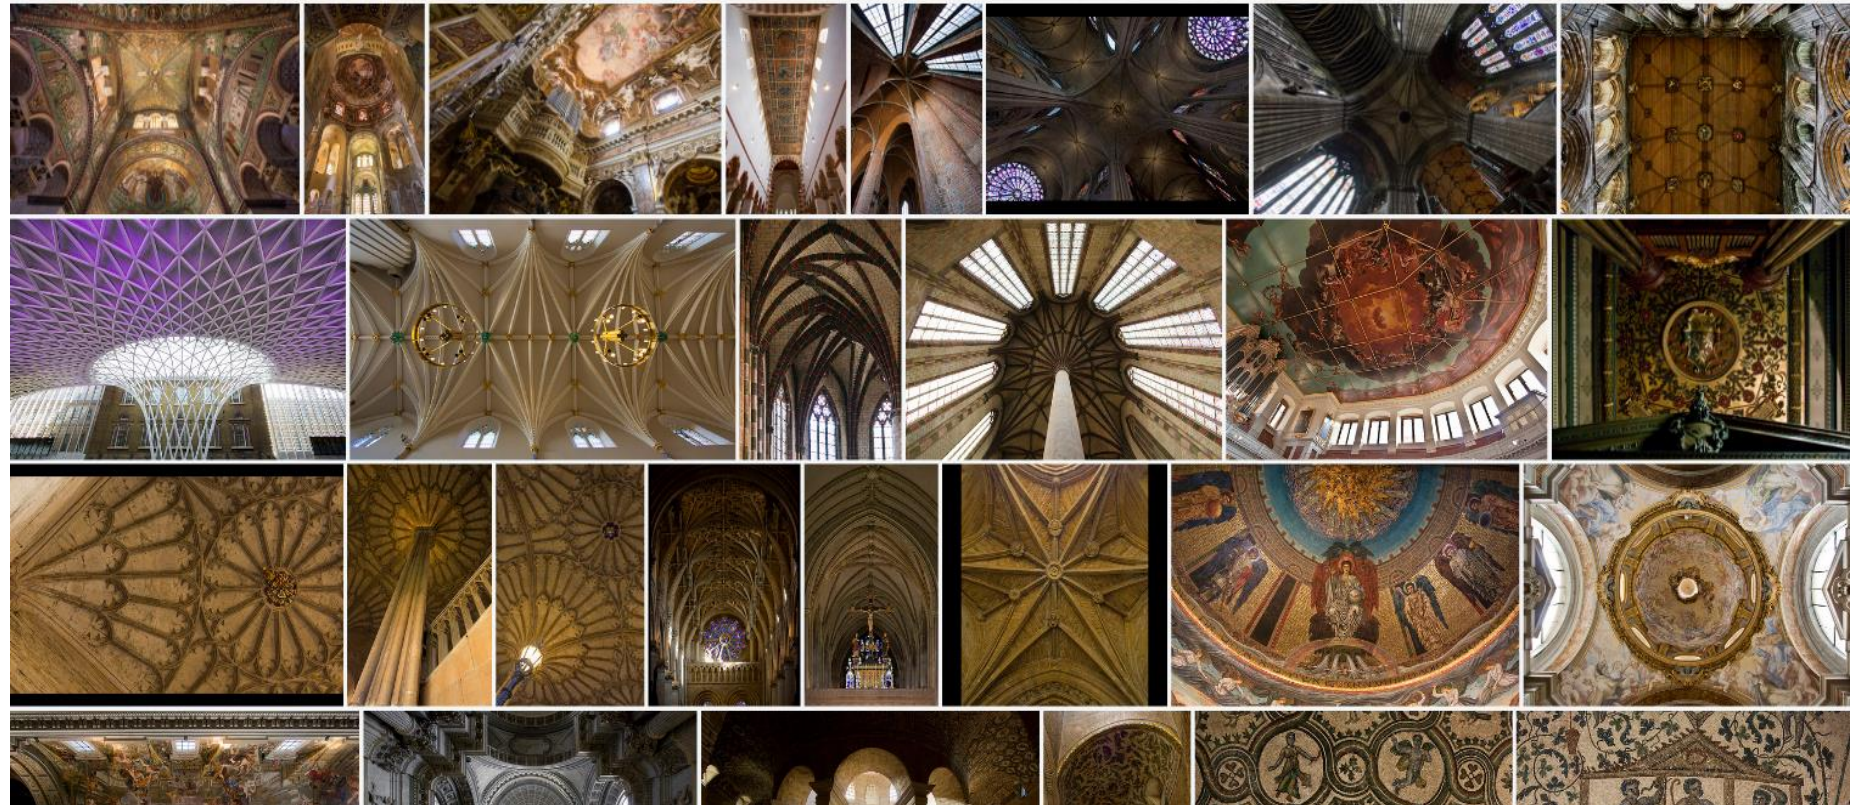

Many people enter a room and fail to look up (or down at the floor). But that would be to miss what is often the most spectacular part of the room.

Sharing Faithful Media

The Diocese of Orlando Communications Secretariat and the Secretariat of Laity, Family and Life are debuting a new, free service for parishes starting Lent, 2017.

We will provide local parish and school contacts “ready to share” graphics, videos and other content that is suitable for sharing via social media sites, websites, e-newsletters and printed materials, such as bulletins.

We will share a link to access these resources. To receive the link, email cyoung@orlandodiocese.org with your name, title, contact information and affiliation.

Pope's Message for 2017 World Day for Social Communications:

Theme:
“Fear not, for I am with you”
(Is 43.5)

Communicating Hope
and Trust in Our Time.

“Fear not, for I am with you,”
are words believers hear whispered in the midst of the world’s tumult.

The words encourage people to search for and identify the ways God is working in the world.

“The anesthetization of conscience or letting despair get the better of us are two possible ‘diseases’ that our current communication system can cause. It often appears that communications media are used as part of “a genuine strategy” for creating fear.”

“We Christians have ‘good news’ to tell because we contemplate trustfully the prospect of the kingdom of God.”
